

James L. Holly, M.D.

Responses to my September 25, 1998 Testimony to the Texas Department of Insurance Commissioner's Public Hearing – Distributed June 25, 2015

1. From: Chris Cheney healthleadersmedia.com
Sent: Monday, June 29, 2015 6:51 AM

Hi Larry, you really are a prophet. Larry. Your observations in 1998 are spot on. You could update your 1998 remarks with a couple of value-based catch phrases, and it would be as good a description of cost-effective care as I have heard since joining HealthLeaders last year. Always a pleasure hearing from you, Chris

2. From: Michael Fasher, Sydney.edu.au
Sent: Saturday, June 27, 2015 3:42 AM

Dear Larry, I am so pleased to be included in this circulation. Your paper was inspired then and is inspirational today. Especially for Australians grappling with a similar system to the one you worked in 17 years or so ago. It isn't surprising that robust principals survive the decades. My regards, Michael

Michael Fasher, General Practitioner
Adjunct Associate Professor University of Sydney
Conjoint Associate Professor University of Western Sydney

3. From: Dr. Sam JW Romeo Tower-
health.com Sent: Friday, June 26, 2015
11:25 AM

Impressive---good medicine has not changed much---good ethics have become more inconsistent with the secular logic that is being applied--- good people practicing quality care remain the same.

Sam JW Romeo, MD, MBA
Tower Health & Wellness
Center

4. From: Edward Rippel qimpc.com
Sent: Friday, June 26, 2015 8:18 AM

What a powerful message! Those very issues are about to become far more significant than many providers are prepared for.

5. From: Hani Bittar bigpond.com
Sent: Thursday, June 25, 2015 8:43 PM

Hi Larry. We had a cascade of meetings in the past 2 weeks and your name and thoughts were mentioned and highly praised from us all here. Michael Fasher has mentioned your achievement and leadership several time in his presentations to local GPs. I hope you and the team are well.

Hani Bittar
Richmond Road Family
Practice Australia

6. From: Shine, Kenneth UT System.edu
Sent: Thursday, June 25, 2015 1:01 PM

Truly prescient!! Congratulations! Ken